

Serbian and Albanian Prime Ministers Aleksandar Vucic and Edi Rama will meet in Nis in two months to open a Serbian-Albanian business forum, sources in the Serbian government have told Tanjug.

At a press conference with US Vice President Joseph Biden on Tuesday, Vucic said he would welcome Rama, ethnic Albanian representatives from Kosovo-Metohija and businesspeople in a month's time.

Sources in the Albanian government have told Tanjug there were plans for Vucic and Rama to meet twice - in Nis, as well as in Belgrade in October, when they should take part in the Belgrade Security Forum.

The event will also be attended by Kosovo government officials, including Deputy Minister of Local Government Bajram Gecaj.

Source; News Now